Active Lives Survey and GENEActiv movement monitor study

Sport England, Ipsos and the University of Exeter thank your school for participating in this study.

You are helping us to identify how children engage with sport and physical activity and their attitudes towards it.

Your participation has increased our understanding of whether children and young people meet the Chief Medical Officer's guidelines for children's physical activity of 60 minutes a day.

It has also given us insights into how movement monitors could be extended to more schools in the Active Lives Survey.
